

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IN THE AMERICAS

Now accepting applications to this 2018 NEH Summer Institute.

DURATION: July 23-August 3, 2018

APPLICATION DEADLINE: March 1, 2018

STIPEND: $2,100

University and community college faculty in any field are invited to explore the remarkably understudied stories of how women in the Americas achieved the suffrage. Seventeen specialists from Argentina to Canada will each present a piece of the interconnecting pattern that led to suffrage extensions across the hemisphere.

The campus of Carthage College, stretched along the shores of Lake Michigan, will provide a picturesque setting for a two-week, in-depth experience. We will analyze suffrage movements and the politics that surrounded them. As we examine the meaning of citizenship, we will also ask who was included and who was excluded from formal political participation, when, and why.

Adjunct and non-tenure track faculty are especially encouraged to apply. Spanish or Portuguese language fluency is helpful but not required.
